Coordinated Arts Program – Sessional Lecturers for ASTU 101 2020 Winter (T1)

The Coordinated Arts Program (CAP) in the Faculty of Arts’ First-Year Programs at the University of British Columbia invites applications for part-time sessional lectureships for the 2020 Winter Session to teach sections of ASTU 101 in the Political Science, Philosophy, Economics (PPE) Stream (term 1) with the streams and total number of sections available subject to enrolment.

Note that term 1 teaching in the Faculty of Arts will be fully online. Available sections are:

ASTU 101 P01: Mon, Wed, Fri 10:00-11:00
ASTU 101 P02: Mon, Wed, Fri 11:00-12:00

ASTU 101 is a one-semester course on academic research and writing, which satisfies the Faculty of Arts writing requirement, but not the literature requirement. Please consult the CAP website for a fuller description of the ASTU 101 courses: https://cap.arts.ubc.ca/our-streams/astu-100/

To see the current course description for the available sections of ASTU 101, see https://cap.arts.ubc.ca/our-streams/political-science-philosophy-economics-ppe/. To learn more about CAP, a cohort program for first-year students that brings together courses in the social sciences, creative and performing arts, and humanities in research streams, see our website: http://cap.arts.ubc.ca/

Each section of ASTU 100 enrolls 25 first year Arts students. Teaching these sections also entails some coordinated and collaborative teaching with CAP faculty in a given stream.

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a PhD* in a relevant field, including writing and discourse studies, composition, rhetoric, and literary and cultural studies. Preference will be given to applicants with university-level experience and demonstrated excellence in teaching both literature and academic writing, using an approach that is informed by current theories in writing pedagogy. *PhD candidates who have ABD status and are in the final months of completing their degree requirements may also be considered; please indicate defense date. A background in multi- or interdisciplinarity or collaborative teaching would be an asset.

How to Apply:

Applicants should submit the following documents:

- a letter of application explaining how your research and teaching background qualifies you for the position, and indicating how many sections you would be able to teach.
- curriculum vitae (detailing postsecondary teaching experience, including credit value of each course)
- names and contact information for three academic references sample course outline (1-2 pages) for ASTU 101 in the PPE stream (including a list of sample readings and descriptions of sample assignments).

• statement of teaching philosophy that demonstrates a research-informed approach to teaching academic writing and literature

• evidence of teaching effectiveness (student teaching evaluations, and peer evaluations if available)

Applications must be submitted online as .pdf files. Please follow the instructions provided on the application webpage:

https://cap.arts.ubc.ca/welcome-to-ubcs-co-ordinated-arts-program/working-with-us/

Review of applications will begin on July 21, 2020 and will continue until the positions are filled.

Positions are subject to final budgetary approval and are governed by UBC’s “Agreement on Conditions of Appointment for Sessional Lecturers.” The current minimum salary is $7,806.12 per 3-credit course.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Métis, Inuit, or Indigenous person. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.
